"Bringing stories to life, one frame at a time"

Hawadeet's Origin

In 2010, Moataz Abdel Wahab founded Hawadeet Films, formerly known as Team One Productions. Over the past decade, the company has produced nearly thirty documentary films and numerous television programs, collaborating with prominent production entities such as Al Jazeera Documentary, Al Arabiya, and Discovery Education.

In 2017, the company expanded into feature films with When We're Born, which was screened at several film festivals, including the El Gouna Film Festival in 2019. The film earned multiple accolades, including the Best Film Award from the Egyptian Film Critics Association in 2020 and the Second Best Film Award at the National Egyptian Film Festival in 2021. It was also selected as Egypt's official submission for the Oscars.

Hawadeet's Origin

In 2020, Hawadeet Films co-produced the feature film Curfew, which received critical acclaim and won several awards after being showcased at various national and international festivals.

In 2023, the company ventured into theater production, producing two plays as part of the Riyadh Season. Additionally, it developed two documentary projects for Al Jazeera Documentary, focusing on life in the Arab World during the 1980s. Following this expansion, Hawadeet Films established a new branch in the United Arab Emirates after its founder, Moataz Abdel Wahab, was awarded the UAE's Golden Residency for creatives.

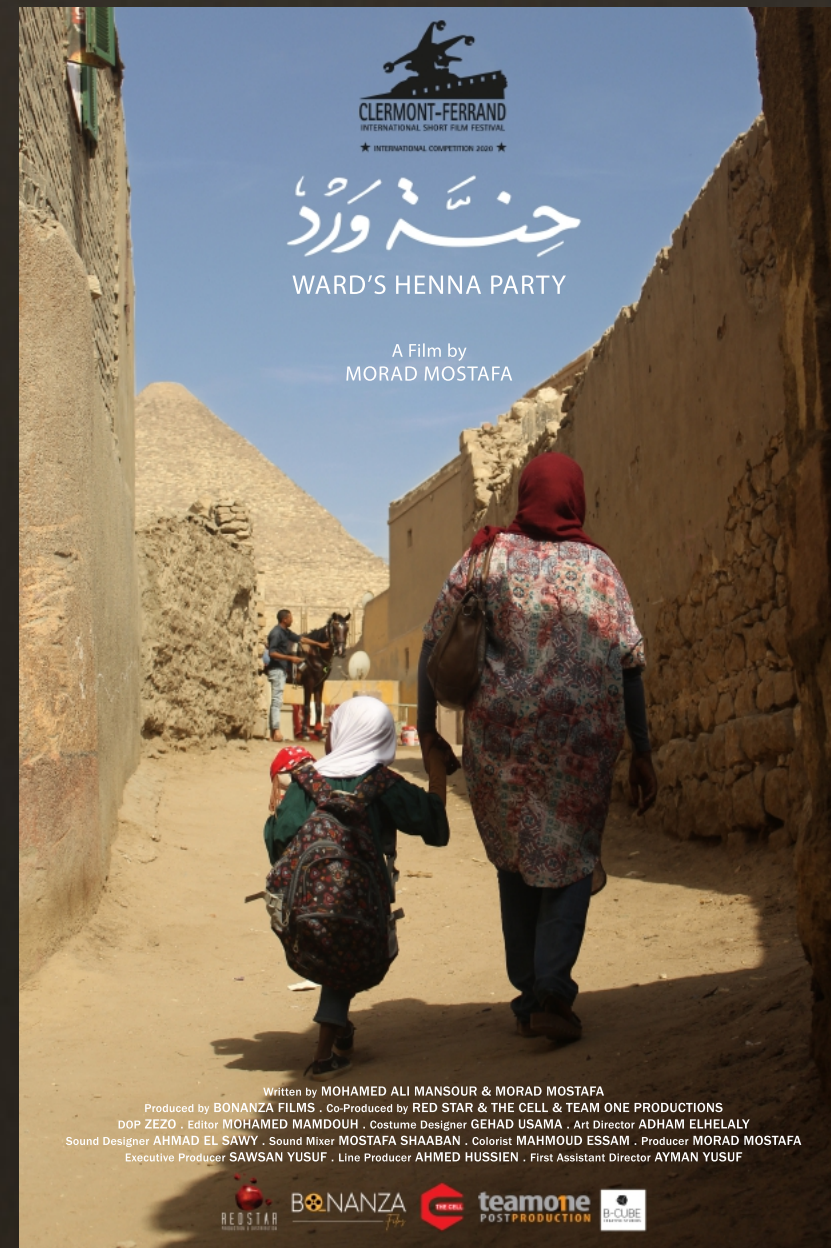

Hawadeet's Origin

In 2024, Hawadeet Films embarked on a new chapter, focusing on adapting distinguished literary works into cinematic productions. The company secured the rights to two novels: The Hot Egg Funeral by emerging Egyptian writer Mohamed Abdel Gawad and Drowning: Tales of Oppression and Loneliness by Sudanese novelist Hammour Ziyada, with plans to develop them into feature films.

Most recently, Hawadeet Films co-produced Abu Judy in collaboration with Red Stars Films and Garage Art Production. The film premiered in the short film competition of the Cairo International Film Festival 2024.
